MOOSE TO BOLT OVER FUSION ROW

Assemblyman A. F. Murray May Lead Return to the Ranks of Republicans.

When the Progressive Assemblymen return to the Legislature on May 4 for the extra session they will find their numbers depleted.

Already one of the nineteen Progressives who have fought against each other under the more or less disputed leadership of Michael Schanp has announced his intention of withdrawing from the fold of the Bull Moose.

This man is Andrew F. Murray, representative of the 19th Assembly District.
Murray has made known to several men in this city, including three Republican leaders, his intention to return to the Republican party.

Assemblyman Murray, it is said, is convinced that the Progressive party is not what he expected it to be, and at least four other Assemblymen, it is averred, are ready to follow him out of the shadow of the "Big Stick" and rejoin the Republican party.

"Mr. Murray's case," said one prominent Republican leader last night, "is only typical of many thousands in this state and many hundreds of thousands throughout the country. The vote next fall will show the Progressive party to be nothing more than a party of leaders —only the leaders will be left."

Disunion among the Progressive As-semblymen was a common topic in Albany during the session of the Legislature. One of the Progressive Assemblymen—not Mr. Murray—had a statement prepared to give to the press attacking Progressive Assembly Leader Michael Schanp and Progressive leaders generally, but was dissuaded by his associates from issuing it.

The one thing more than anything else that has alienated Progressive officeholders from the party was the notation of George W. Perkins, issued a month ago. At that time Mr. Perkins declared that the Progressives were in for a "knock-down-and-drag-out fight" with Republicans in New York State, and that there was no more chance of the two coming together again than there was for a "snowball in hades."

The first indication of a defection from the ranks of the stand-pat-knock-down-and-drag-out Progressives came ten days later, when Professor Frederick M.
Davenport, of Hamilton College, a former state Senator and one of the leaders of the Progressive party, came out in an open letter to Mr. Perkins, declaring that Mr. Perkins's no-fusion declaration was a mistake.

In this Professor Davenport is heartily seconded by nearly all the Progressive Assemblymen, who hope for re-election and who realize that their defeat is a foregone conclusion unless they receive the endorsement of the Republican party.

HONOR COMES FIRST, SAYS CHAMP CLARK

Speaker Opposed to Peace
"at Any Price," He Tells Audience.

GIVES BRYAN QUIET
THRUST THIS TIME

Wishes Cabinet Members Were in Congress So They Could Be Cross-Examined.

Although Speaker Champ Clark declined last night to discuss the Mexican situation, he indicated his line of thought pretty well in an address in the West End Presbyterian Church.

"I believe in peace," he said, "but I am not in favor of peace at any price.
I believe in peace with honor."

He carefully omitted any reference to the "easy" task of President Wilson which he spoke about a couple of weeks ago in Brooklyn. His address was on "The United States in the Twentieth Century," and in the main was the same as the one he delivered a fortnight ago, with the reference to President Wilson's easy job cut out.

Speaker Clark has not changed his opinion of Congress, however. He still believes it to be a much abused body.
He said its members worked harder and longer hours than any of his listeners, and he asked them to go down to Washington and see Congress in action, and not depend upon hearsay.

Some of Mr. Clark's auditors thought he was giving William Jennings Bryan a left-handed jab when he said he believed in the customs they had on the other side.

One was that making Cabinet officers members of Congress without a vote.

"We would make them answer on the spot," he said, "and not give them a week to fix up something they called an answer. There are lots of good lawyers in the House, and there is no better way to find out things than by cross-examination."

He also said he believed in the recall, and that if it had been in use in this country Cleveland would have been recalled in the middle of his second term and Taft in the middle of his term.

"And I believe it would have been right too," he added.

Mr. Clark began his address in the pulpit, but soon shifted back to the platform after finding the pulpit not of the size necessary for a political speaker like himself. On the platform, he was at home, walking up and down, holding to the railing and doing a lot of things that he couldn't do in the pulpit.

Representative Walter M. Chandler introduced the Speaker in a speech that just bubbled with praise. He said Mr.
Clark was the best beloved man in public life and a lot of other things of the same variety.

Before going to the church Speaker Clark was the guest of the combined Democratic and Progressive clubs of the 15th District at dinner at the Hotel Marseilles.

GIVES HOUSE FOR VOTES

Kathleen Tomkins, Suffragist, Enlists Dolls for Cause.

The Women's Political Union will open campaign headquarters at 94 Hudson st. at this afternoon. The youngest member of the union, little Miss Kathleen Tomkins, daughter of Calvin Tomkins, has given her doll's house for a window decoration.

This is a very remarkable doll's house, of real Colonial type, made by the little girl's uncle. It will bear across its por-tico a sign saying in large letters: "Of course, woman's place is the home, but—"

From every window will stream a "but," such as "Government controls the milk supply," "Votes make pure food laws" and "Votes keep children in school." Miss Tomkins herself will be there after school to show off the house and streamers.

There will be meetings every day this week at the headquarters, and next week there will be a rummage sale. Miss Beatrice Brown is in charge. Henry C.
De Mille was the speaker at the regular Sunday tea yesterday afternoon.

JERSEY SUFFRAGISTS BUSY

Plans to Carry Bergen County
Now Under Way.

[From The Tribune Correspondent.] Hackensack, N. J., April 19.—The suf-fragists of Bergen County are facing the campaign problem. "How shall we carry Bergen County?" This question will be considered at a rally to take place at Leonia High School Thursday.

As a preliminary there will be a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Horatio R. Reed, when the state committee will be a guest.
Those who will address the rally will be Mary Johnston, Mrs. Minnie J. Reynolds and Mrs. Lillian F. Feuckert.

LAD GIVES LIFE IN VAIN

Attempts to Save Cousin and Both Are Drowned.

Trenton, N. J., April 19.—In a futile effort to save the life of his eight-year-old cousin, who had fallen into the Delaware and Raritan canal late this afternoon, a seven-year-old lad was drowned.

The boys, Albert Hutchins and Frederick Beake, were walking along the tow path of the canal, when young Beake slipped and fell into the canal. The other little fellow leaped over the side of the canal and tried to grab hold of his cousin when the latter came to the surface.

He overreached himself and went into the water. After a futile struggle both boys were drowned.

It was three hours before the bodies were taken from the water.
Frank H. Hutchins, father of one of the drowned lads, is vice-president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

last presented a series of lectures, including Miss Ida Tarbell and Professor Jeremiah L. Lenken, will be addressed by ex-President Taft April 21 at 8:30 toque of corded blue silk trimmed with black quills.

SPRING TO MAKE ARMORY A BOWER

Political Education Fete Aided by Unemployed Women—Many Features Planned.

For three days this week—Wednesday,
Thursday and Friday—the 1st Regiment Armory will have the appearance of a woodland bower. From the ceiling to the floor the walls will carry great boughs of dogwood, branches of fragrant apple blossoms, wisteria and other blooms of spring.
This will be the setting for the spring festival and ball on which the League for Political Education has spent weeks of preparation.

A large force of women, who were unemployed, have been making flowers for the decoration of the armory. In this way many of them have learned a useful trade, and, while not highly paid, their wages have been sufficient to support them.

In preparing for the festival scores of women have given unspareingly of their time. An elaborate programme has been completed. Two hundred young women have been rehearsing for two weeks for the flower spectacle, in which they are to deplete the coming and evolution of Spring.
podrome, has been in charge of the rehearsals.

It will be in a specially constructed bower that the young women will be seen in the spectacle of Spring. They will appear as roses, violets, pansies, lilacs, of the valley, tulips and apple blossoms. The spectacle will be produced each evening and on Wednesday there will be a ball, at which many of the most prominent dancers now before the public will appear and take part.

Afternoon tea will be served by pretty and accomplished actresses under the leadership of Miss Emma Frohman. There will be general dancing, led by Mr. and Mrs. Murray-Anderson, who will also be present at the evening dances. On Thursday evening there will be competitive dancing. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs.
Vernon Castle will introduce a new step to be called the spring step.

Booths of novel design and mysterious purpose will line the walls of the armory.
McJuffrey Wilhelm will be there, pre-will be devoted to a display of aero-

ASKS WOMEN POLICE IN PROBATION WORK

Justice Page Thinks They Would Tend to Better Protection for Girls.

REPORT ALSO CALLS
FOR MORE WORKERS

Home to Take Place of Reformatories for Feeble-Minded, Is Urged.

In the fifth annual report of the New York Probation and Protection Association, made public yesterday, Justice Alfred R. Page, president of the organization, issues a call for more workers. A clubhouse for girls inclined to moral weakness is also needed.

"Girls' protective leagues have been organized to obtain the help of girls in the moral protection of other girls," Judge Page reports. "There are now more than twenty-five girls working together for this purpose. The responsibility felt by members of leagues for other girls, for raising the tone of conversation of their factories and workshops, and for improving moral conditions about them, indicates that they understand the true meaning and spirit of the leagues."

"There is opportunity for great extension of this protective league work to reach a much larger group of girls. For this we need two more workers to devoted their entire time to this work."

"We have found in the work of the Probation and Protection Association one great evil, one of the open doors through which girls are led from a life of probity into one of delinquency is the lack of wholesome recreation. These girls work hard all day and their opportunities are limited for diversion. The dance hall is an opening. A suggestion for a supper or a suggestion to go to some place where other refreshments are served naturally follows."

"We do hope by the organization of these leagues to be enabled to furnish more rational, healthful and helpful means of recreation for these girls, where we can gather them together and teach them how to help themselves and help each other, and by affording them a means of recreation to draw them away from the other attractions that are making for evil in their lives."

"From October 1, 1912, to September 30, 1913, 1,308 girls were under the care of the New York Probation and Protection Association, 667 of whom were referred during the year. In addition to this number 347 girls were referred for employment only and 23 for advice. Girls were referred from eighty-six different sources, including courts, Police Department, Department of Justice of the United States, various philanthropic organizations, and institutions and also by individuals."

"Workers and investigators made 11,687 visits and investigations during the year.
Girls visited Waverley House 1,446 times.
Relief was given in cases of special need to 36 girls. Thirty-five girls were sent to their homes in other cities, and transportation was furnished in nearly every case. Medical care was given to 176 girls during the year and 475 physical examinations were made. Employment was found for 457 girls through the employment exchange."

"Girls from the courts, witnesses in white slave traffic cases and others in need of temporary care have remained at Waverley House. Altogether 294 girls have been cared for at Waverley House during the year, 188 of whom entered for the first time. Sixty-one girls have been witnesses in cases pending in the courts.
When girls leave Waverley House positions are found for them and workers continue to visit and help them."

Justice Page calls attention to two great necessities—an institution for defective delinquents to take the place of reformatories where feeble-minded girls are confined, and women with police powers "to do much of the investigational and protective work which is being done at the present time by philanthropic associations in New York City."

President Returns to Paris.

[By Cable to The Tribune.] Paris, April 19.—President Poincaré today left Eze, in the South of France, where he has been spending a short vacation, in anticipation of the coming visit of King George to Paris.

MISS J. AYRES IN SPRING FESTIVAL OF LEAGUE FOR POLITICAL EDUCATION.

For three days this week—Wednesday,
Thursday and Friday—the 1st Regiment
Armory will have the appearance of a woodland bower. From the ceiling to the
dogwood, branches of fragrant apple blossoms, wisteria and other blooms of spring.
This will be the setting for the spring
festival and ball on which the League for Political Education has spent weeks of
preparation.

the decoration of the armory. In this
wages have been sufficient to support them.

have been rehearsing for two weeks for
the flower spectacle, in which they are to
deplete the coming and evolution of Spring.
hearsals.

It will be in a specially constructed
bower that the young women will be seen in the spectacle of Spring. They will appear as roses, violets, pansies, lilacs, of the valley, tulips and apple blossoms. The
which many of the most prominent dance-
take part.

and accomplished actresses under the leadership of Miss Emma Frohman. There will be general dancing, led by Mr. and Mrs. Murray-Anderson, who will also be present at the evening dances. On Thurs-
dancing. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs.
be called the spring step.

purpose will line the walls of the armory.
McJuffrey Wilhelm will be there, presiding over the Dutch booth. Another will be devoted to a display of aeroplanes. Rugs will be featured in a third.
One hundred well known women will be present afternoon and evening as patronesses of the festival and ball.
